8. Main Content

The regulations governing "instructions relating to the actions to be considered in the road bridges draft (IAP-97)" exist to determine the categories of actions, the weighting coefficients and the combinations of actions which must be taken into account for the purposes of the draft relating to road bridges.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

In essence, the purpose of the regulations is to update the "instructions relating to the actions to be considered in the road bridges draft", approved by Order of 28 February 1972 by adapting them to technological advances which are taking place, both in the draft and the construction of bridges as well as in the technological development of the materials and elements which make up these structures, the changes which have taken place in the nature and volume of the traffic which passes over these bridges and the national and international technical regulations relating to the actions.
