8. Main Content

Upkeep and maintenance: It has been noted that some lift companies install hardware (automatisms, variable-frequency drives, remote alarms, etc.) that require specific tools or access codes to configure them. This draft sets out provisions prohibiting abusive practices that prevent free competition in equipment maintenance.

Technical inspections: Given the technological complexity of certain installations and the multitude of new inspection implementation procedures, technical inspectors cannot do their work unless they are accompanied by a technician from the maintenance company who is familiar with the installation and able to answer any questions concerning the technology used and equipment operation. This draft requires the maintenance company to attend technical installation inspections.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

This decree is intended to create conditions likely to improve the quality of equipment maintenance and increase the efficiency of technical inspections: improvement of competition conditions, better communication between maintenance companies, inspection bodies, and users of lifts.
