8. Main Content

The aim of this amendment is to try to avoid a false legal classification due to the phenomena known as transference. As a result of these phenomena, in tests carried out on blended cheeses (Appendix 2 of the said Order), the presence of certain additives may be detected which are not authorized in this type of cheese, even though these additives are present in the cheeses which form the main ingredient of the blended cheeses (Appendix 1 of the said Order). This situation must be considered normal in a correct manufacturing process, provided that it occurs under specified conditions and is maintained within certain limits.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The aim of this draft is to clarify the actions in terms of market discipline, with the intention of ensuring that inspections do not result in bans in those cases where the presence of non-authorized additives is detected, and where these additives have not been used as optional ingredients.
