8. Main Content

The draft gives the Secretary of State's approval for the types of device and the conditions of their use for the measurement of noise for the purposes of the Noise Act 1996; the calibrators with which these devices are to be calibrated; and how the measuring device and calibrator are to be verified. The draft Approval refers to a number of BS and BS EN in order to do this. An NPL Interim Document for the Periodic Testing of IEC 61672 Sound Level Meters is referred to in paragraph 4(3)(b) of the draft Approval. This is because BS EN 61672-3 is not available yet. When it is we intend to amend the Approval so that BS EN 61672-3 is referred to. This will mean that Class 1 of BS EN 61672-1 measuring devices and calibrators used with such devices will be verified in accordance with BS EN 61672-3. We wish to notify the Commission now of our intention to refer to BS EN 61672-3 when it is available, rather than have to notify the Commission again when this happens. Most local authorities (the regulators) use Type 1 of BS EN 60804 measuring devices, but the new Class 1 of BS EN 61672 devices are starting to be used.)

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Section 5 of the Noise Act 1996 (<http://www.opsi.gov.uk/acts/acts1996/1996037.htm>) gives the Secretary of State the power to make Directions on the maximum permitted level of noise between 11pm and 7am for noise from dwellings and licensed premises (premises in respect of which a premises licence or a temporary event notice has effect under the Licensing Act 2003) for the purposes of a Noise Act 1996 offence. Section 6 of the Noise Act 1996 gives the Secretary of State the power to make an Approval of the devices to be used to measure the noise and the conditions of their use.
