8. Main Content

This draft decree is intended to modernise the waste tyre management sector, particularly by reinforcing its compliance with the Extended Producer Responsibility mechanism (EPR). This draft decree is also issued pursuant to the Order of 17 December 2010 transposing Directive 2008/98/EC of 19 November 2008 on waste. The main provisions of the decree provide for the obligation and the conditions of waste collection and treatment by those placing tyres on the market and amend the approval procedure for operators, as well as the existing regime of sanctions.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Over ten years after the creation of the sector, and taking into account the acquired experience of collecting and processing used tyres, as well as of the other Extended Producer Responsibility sectors, it has proved necessary to renew the regulatory mechanism covering the sector.

The Directorate-General for risk prevention has associated all parties concerned (producers, collective bodies, professional federations, associations of local elected representatives, waste recycling and processing federations, environmental protection associations, chambers of agriculture, etc.) with discussions aimed at improving certain aspects of the organisation and operation of the sector:

- implementation of procedures for consultation with all parties involved in the established, institutionalised and sustainable sector,
- clearer framing of the objectives of the sector, including the definition of clear objectives for waste tyre recycling procedures,
- resolution of difficulties that it has been possible to identify during the years of operation of the sector, due to increased transparency and anticipation, and compliance with the new Community texts.
