8. Main Content

For application in the Autonomous Community of Cantabria.

In order for snails or snail products to be sold under the name ecological, in addition to observing the general rules and principles established in Regulation (EC) 834/2007 and other applicable regulations, they must comply with the provisions of the technical regulation concerning rules on transformation, animal origin, nutrition, prophylaxis and veterinary treatments, captivity and breeding methods and identification of animals and animal products, as well as pre-slaughter practices, responding to the market demand for a quality product in terms of production, quality hygiene and food safety.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Article 42 of Regulation (EC) 834/2007 provides that pending the inclusion of detailed production rules, national rules or, in the absence thereof, private standards accepted or recognised by the Member States shall apply. Given that Cantabria currently has no approved technical regulation on ecological heliciculture, and since this is a real and economically viable alternative, there is a need to protect operators registered under the ecological heliciculture regime and whose main activity is heliciculture by approving a technical regulation adapted to the characteristics of the species.
