4. Notification Number

2004/0343/UK – C80A

5. Title

The Food Labelling (Added Phytosterols or Phytostansols) (Scotland) Regulations 2004

6. Products Concerned

Foods and food ingredients with added phytosterols, phytosterol esters, phytosterols and/or phytosterol esters (these are collectively referred to as "phytosterols" below).

7. Notification Under Another Act

Directive 2000/13/EC on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to the labelling, presentation and advertising of foodstuffs

8. Main Content

The draft Regulations put in place supporting measures for the domestic implementation of Commission Regulation (EC) No 608/2004. By virtue of Article 13(4) of Directive 2000/13/EC, small packages with a surface area of less than 10cm² and certain indelibly marked bottles are exempt from the requirements of Regulation 608/2004. However, the draft regulations require small packages and certain indelibly marked bottles to be labelled with the particulars specified in items 1 and 5 in the second paragraph of Article 2 of Regulation 608/2004. These particulars require labelling to indicate (a) the presence of added phytosterols and (b) that the product may not be nutritionally appropriate for pregnant and breastfeeding women, and children under the age of five years.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

These national measures are justifiable on the grounds of 'protection of public health' as allowed under Article 18 (2) of Directive 2000/13/EC. In its September 2002 view on the long-term effects of the intake of elevated levels of phytosterols from multiple dietary sources, the Scientific Committee on Food (SCF) states that it is advisable to avoid phytosterol intakes above the range 1-3 grams per day. The Committee also recommends that consumption of phytosterols should be avoided by pregnant and breastfeeding women, and children under the age of five years.

10. Reference Documents - Basic Texts

Scientific Committee on Food (2002). General view of the Scientific Committee on Food on the long-term effects of the intake of elevated levels of phytosterols from multiple dietary sources, with particular attention to the effects on beta-carotene.
