8. Main Content

The draft Decision lays down conditions for the use of the 26 GHz (24.5 GHz-26.5 GHz) frequency band by fixed service point-to-point link radio installations. It is envisaged that the Decision, once adopted, will replace the existing provisions and abrogate Decision No 99-831 of 6 October 1999 taken by the above-mentioned regulatory authority, laying down the technical and general operating conditions for the 24.5 GHz-26.5 GHz frequency band for fixed service transmission links.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The draft Decision is intended to open the whole 26 GHz (24.5 GHz-26.5 GHz) band for radio frequency use, whereas until now the band has been divided into three blocks: the first for local loop radio, the second for radio frequencies and a last block which is frozen due to coordination constraints. It also enables additional 112 MHz channelling to be implemented as provided for under the European framework (CEPT recommendation).

10. Reference Documents - Basic Texts

References to basic texts: Decision No 99-831 of the French Telecommunications Regulatory Authority of 6 October 1999 laying down the technical and general operating conditions for the 24.5 GHz-26.5 GHz frequency band for fixed service transmission links. For the new high capacity channels opened by this draft Decision, a mechanism is envisaged to tend towards the systematic use of higher performance antennas than those previously used (class 4 antennas).
