5. Title

Draft Order on nuclear pressure equipment

6. Products Concerned

Pressure equipment specially designed for nuclear application, whose failure could lead to radioactive emissions.

7. Notification Under Another Act

8. Main Content

The draft establishes the definition of the rules of classification for pressure equipment specially designed for nuclear application, whose failure could lead to radioactive emission, the technical requirements applicable to their design, their manufacture and monitoring their manufacture, the methods for assessing their conformity by the bodies approved for this purpose. It also defines the requirements relating to surveillance of this equipment during its operation.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The draft Order replaces the regulatory provisions applicable up to now, taking account of the publication of Decree No 99-1046 on pressure equipment, which transposes Directive 97/23/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 May 1997 on the approximation of the laws of the Member States concerning pressure equipment. The draft takes account of the development in the area of safety of technical equipment. It allows the approximation of technical requirements applicable in the European Union with those of other pressure equipment.
