The text supplements the Order of 30 September by specifying the minimum levels of performance to be met where passively safe road traffic sign supports are used.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The use of passively safe road traffic sign supports had hitherto been prohibited under the road traffic sign regulations.

A series of experiments has led to the conclusion that these devices are of value in certain cases. Furthermore, legislation will be developed to authorise their potential use, and the draft amendment to the Order of 30 September 2011 is intended to create a framework for their use.
