8. Main Content

A) The proposed Regulations amend the Measuring Equipment (Liquid Fuel and Lubricants) Regulations 1995. The 1995 Regulations apply to equipment used for trade to measure liquid fuel (other than liquefied petroleum gas) in a quantity of 100 litres or less (excluding equipment for automatic measuring of constant nominal quantities). The 1995 Regulations effectively make it unlawful to use such measuring equipment for trade unless it has been tested, passed as fit for such use and stamped by an inspector of weights and measures. The proposed Amendment Regulations prescribe the tests to be carried out by the inspector of weights and measures with a view to passing the equipment as fit for use for trade and stamping it.

The 1995 Regulations provide for mutual recognition of test results

B) The United Kingdom would be pleased to be informed by other Member States of the European Economic Area of their own standards or regulations offering an equivalent level of safety and security.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The 1995 Regulations require the testing and verification of equipment used for the measurement of liquid fuel and lubricants, but do not specify which tests should be carried out. The Amendment Regulations will provide for all equipment to be tested on an equal basis in order to be passed as fit for use for trade under the 1995 Regulations.
