8. Main Content

This draft order lays down the technical requirements for electrical consumer installations.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The draft order principally proposes supplementing the provisions of the order of 17 March 2003, preserving the conditions for the supply of sensitive charges (installations important to the safety of persons and goods on an industrial site, for example) while improving the support of the electrical system by means of consumer installations which at the same time involve connected production groups and sensitive charges connected to public distribution networks.
