- Regulation (EC) No 315/93 laying down Community procedures for contaminants in food
- Regulations (EC) Nos 852/853/854/2004 on the hygiene of foodstuffs

8. Main Content

The draft Order adapts French legislation relating to the classification and relaying of shellfish production areas, bringing it into alignment with the provisions of Regulations (EC) Nos 853/2004 and 854/2004 of 29 April 2004. It proposes that chemical criteria should be taken into account when classifying areas (this principle already exists in France). It proposes that shellfish should be divided into 3 groups according to their biology when classifying areas (this principle also already exists in France). Finally, it specifies conditions for relaying shellfish originating in category C areas for durations of less than 2 months, on the basis of a risk analysis, pursuant to Annex III, section VII, Chapter II, C, point 2, c of Regulation No 853/2004 of 29 April 2004.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

This Order enables alignment with European regulations.
