8. Main Content

The Draft Decree covers amendments to the technical specifications of type B machines and amends the definition of type "C" or gaming machines, leaving the corresponding approval decision to determine the maximum price per play, maximum prize which the machine can pay out and jackpots.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The Draft Decree covers the amendments necessary for adapting our legislation to the Agreement of the Plenary of the Council of Gaming Policies of 17 December 2014 amending the technical specifications of type B machines, in order to improve market unity with the context of implementing the provisions contained in Law 20/2013 of 9 December 2013 on guaranteeing market unity.

Furthermore, it gives a more precise definition of type "C" or gaming machines, leaving the corresponding approval decision to determine the maximum price per play, maximum prize which the machine can pay out and jackpots, to allow for adaptation to the continuous evolution of the sector, governing payment methods for users to play and for prize payouts, and eliminating the possibility of incorporating optional devices into machines. It also eliminates the need for prizes to be whole multiples of the bet amount, due to practical problems encountered in returning and placing new bets, and multiple-use machines have been renamed multiple-position machines as this is the more common term in practice, giving a more complete definition of such machines given that they are required to offer at least one game in common, to comprise a single unit, to be operated under a single licence and, for capacity purposes, to be considered as a single machine.
