5. Title

Technical specifications for equipment used in different radiocommunications systems.

6. Products Concerned

These specifications apply to a variety of radiocommunications equipment: short range of between 1 and 25 GHz of the land mobile service, between 30 and 1000 MHz for the transmission of data through shared channels to instigate a specific response in the receiver, wideband audio links, base stations for the ERMES data transmission system with wideband modulation, radio links at 23 GHz, radio links at 38 GHz, radio links at 13, 15, 18 GHz, radio links at 29 GHz, aeronautical stations, local radio messaging system.

7. Notification Under Another Act

8. Main Content

The main aim of these technical specifications is to lay down the technical requirements with which the equipment in point 6 above must comply, and to establish test methods to verify that these requirements are observed, in accordance with the standardisation procedures of the European Telecommunications Standards Institute.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The justification for these technical specifications is the establishment of minimum technical requirements for the equipment throughout the country, in order to guarantee the efficient use of the radio spectrum and avoid interference with the normal operation of other telecommunications services.
