8. Main Content

These decisions lay down the conditions for use of satellite telecommunications radio installations consisting of earth stations for "SNG" temporary video links and authorise the use of frequencies for this equipment. They comprise the description of the regulated interface pursuant to Article 4(1) of the R&TTE Directive. They implement the corresponding standards or harmonised standards published by the European Telecommunications Standards Institute. All recognised equivalent standards are accepted.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Earth stations for "SNG" temporary video links are used on a temporary basis for the transmission of news pictures and sound. They operate within the exclusive bands of the fixed satellite service (14-14.25 GHz for uplinks and 12.5-12.75 GHz for downlinks) or within the shared band 10.7-11.7 GHz. They also operate within the shared band 14.25-14.50 GHz on coordinated sites. The list of these sites is attached to the decision authorising the use of frequencies. This list is updated on the www.art-telecom.fr website. The earth stations which do not use frequencies specifically assigned to their user are freely established.
