8. Main Content

The proposed Regulations will prescribe direct mass flow measuring systems for use for trade from the date on which the proposed Regulations come into force. These instruments have hitherto been prescribed by 5 different sets of Regulations, which will still apply for a ten-year transitional period. The proposed Regulations will make it unlawful for these instruments to be used for trade unless they meet the requirements of the proposed Regulations, which will provide for principles of construction and marking; the manner of erection, installation, and use; testing, passing as fit for use for trade, stamping, and obliteration of stamps; and prescribed limits of error. The proposed Regulations will permit the importation of these instruments from other EU and EEA countries without the need for further testing, provided that they are accompanied by adequate documentation. The proposed Regulations also provide for the testing of instruments to be carried out at a place other than the place of use.

The UK will fulfil its obligation under Article 12 of Directive 98/34/EC when these regulations are officially published.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The proposed Regulations will enable the UK to meet its international obligation to implement the requirements of Recommendation R105 of the International Organisation of Legal Metrology (OIML), entitled "Direct Mass Flow Measuring Systems. The proposed Regulations will also help the UK to meet its obligation to other EU and EEA countries for mutual recognition of test results.
