5. Title

Draft Order approving the Technical Regulation on the inspection and certification of propagating material for cultivated mushrooms

6. Products Concerned

Propagating material for cultivated mushrooms (the species of which are defined in the draft Order)

7. Notification Under Another Act

8. Main Content

The draft Order is intended to:

- implement a quality control system with a view to official certification in the field of mushroom production, by defining categories and quality requirements of propagating material, and controls to be carried out by producers, official control of producers and processes and, finally, official inspections;
- set requirements on the registration and authorisation of producers and laboratories authorised to conduct analyses in order to verify compliance with the relevant legislation;
- lay down labelling and marketing standards for propagating material.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

There is a long tradition of cultivation in this sector, and companies have made a considerable effort over the last decade in terms of quality. The interest they have shown in being subject to an official quality control in order to increase the value of their products must be taken into account in officially certifying the material produced in this way.
