8. Main Content

The draft Order is for the purpose of amending the system applicable to the security measures on the transport of coins, notes, stocks and shares and objects of value, and to those which have to be installed in credit institutions that safeguard funds or stocks, ATMs, jewellers and silverware stores, art galleries, antique shops, service stations, outlets that supply combustibles and fuels, pharmacies, lottery administrations, mutual betting premises, gambling casinos, bingo halls and gaming machines premises, in particular, to improve the means of these establishments connected to alarm centres and having a video imaging and recording system for the purpose of increasing efficiency and facilitating police investigations into any possible criminal activity.

Equally, European regulations are being updated and incorporated to enable the characteristics of the security systems of establishments forced to take measures and those others connecting to an alarm centre, with different security levels being assigned depending on the levels of specific risk for each establishment.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The provisions on 'security measures' contained in the Private Security Regulation, approved by Royal Decree 2364/1994 of 9 December, were partially developed in the 'Order of the Ministry of the Interior, of 23 April 1997, seeing through certain aspects in terms of security measures, in compliance with the Regulation on Private Security'.

More than thirteen years after the Order of 23 April 1997, taking account of technological advances, development aspects that are still pending and the suitability of giving a proper response to the current needs to protect persons and goods, it was considered appropriate to upgrade the system for 'security measures' that certain public establishments must necessarily install to prevent criminal activity.

The Draft Order will mean the repeal of the 'Order of the Ministry of the Interior, of 23 April 1997, finalising certain aspects in terms of security measures, pursuant to the Regulation on Private Security'.

10. Reference Documents - Basic Texts

References to the base texts: Order of the Ministry of the Interior, of 23 April 1997, finalising certain aspects in terms of security measures, pursuant to the Regulation on Private Security.

The base texts were submitted in the framework of a previous notification: 1995/391/E.

11. Invocation of the Emergency Procedure

Yes

12. Grounds for the Emergency

The urgency arises from the complementarity of private security and public safety and the need to adopt the most advanced techniques and procedures to guarantee the safety of the public and public order, namely, the need to provide, forthwith, private security firms and their personnel and the National Security Forces with the proper means to fight efficiently against the new profiles and challenges of delinquency and organised crime, very different from those of 1997.

The Draft Order, in addition, is in keeping with a process of regulatory modification and innovation that sets out, from a coherent and systematic perspective, to stimulate simultaneously the upgrading of regulatory provisions relating to private security firms and their staff, the security measures of public establishments and the operation of alarm systems.
