5. Title

SP/DGPT/ATAS/35: Technical Regulation applicable with a view to the approval of hertzian cable terminal equipment intended for the transmission of digital signals operating in the 24.5 GHz to 26.5 GHz range.

6. Products Concerned

The devices in question are the hertzian cables used in independent radio networks for the transmission of digital signals operating in the 24.5 Ghz to 26.5 Ghz range pursuant to CEPT Recommendation T/R 13-02.

7. Notification Under Another Act

8. Main Content

This technical regulation covers the approval of hertzian cables used in the 24.5 GHz to 26.5 GHz range.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Notification of this draft is justified by the proper use of the radio spectrum. The results of tests carried out in laboratories designated by the other Member States, pursuant to Article R 20-18 of Decree no. 92-116 of 4 February 1992 relating to telecommunications terminal equipment, the conditions for its connection and the admission of installation engineers are recognised as valid.

Pursuant to the position of the French authorities in respect of regulations regarding radio receivers, and set out within the framework of the response to the detailed opinion issued by the Commission regarding draft 95/203/F (Technical Regulation applicable to plesiochronous hertzian cable terminal equipment in the 13 GHz range (SP/DGPT/ATAS/30)), manufacturers are, in the case of receivers, offered the possibility of producing a declaration of conformity to the requirements specified in the corresponding chapter (see chapter 6 "Means of proof").
