8. Main Content

The draft regulation notified lays down the obligations of contracting authorities for the entire road network with regard to the use of fixed, vertical road traffic signs subject to CE marking pursuant to Directive 89/106/EC. To this end, it establishes the specific conditions for use and the minimum performance categories required, based on Harmonised European Standard NF EN 12899-1, depending on the anticipated uses of the different road structures or certain road layouts. These regulatory provisions are taken pursuant to Article 3.2 of Directive 89/106/EC for the purposes of the essential safety requirements applied to the structures. The decors, messages and lettering of road signs and certain dimensions of their supports, characteristics that are neither authorised nor harmonised, are however regulated at national level due to their impact on the safety of users with possible application of a mutual recognition procedure for products originating from other Member States.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

The motivation for the drafting of this regulation lies in the need to establish necessary safety performance levels for road structures throughout the country with regard to road traffic signs, principally taking into account different safety conditions, and to have uniform implementation of CE marking for different types of road networks.
