5. Title

Statutory provisions of the INCE stamp for insulation systems and materials for use in construction relating to polyurethane foams produced "in situ".

6. Products Concerned

Polyurethane foams produced "in situ" designed for thermal insulation in construction.

7. Notification Under Another Act

8. Main Content

The conditions for the concession of the INCE stamp for polyurethane foams produced "in situ" are updated. The Ministry of Public Works has been granting the INCE stamp since 1977 in recognition of the technological adequacy of construction products, pursuant to the Order on the creation of the INCE stamp which was amended in order to include the corrections proposed by the EEC for the free movement of goods. This distinguishing mark is of a voluntary nature and assumes no restriction whatsoever on the use of these products.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Introduce the modifications that the evolution of technology has brought to the manufacture of polyurethane foams produced "in situ".

10. Reference Documents - Basic Texts

Order by the Ministry of Public Works and Town Planning (Now the Ministry of Public Works) of 12 December 1997 (BOE of 22 December 1977), creating the INCE stamp.

Order of 6 June 1989 (BOE of 15 June 1989) amending the previous Order to include the corrections proposed by the EEC for the free movement of goods.

Resolution of 15 July of 1981 (BOE of 11 September 1981) approving the ruling provisions of the INCE stamp for various thermal insulation materials, including polyurethane foams produced "in situ".

Resolution of 15 June of 1988 (BOE of 30 June 1988) approving, among others, the general statutory provisions of the INCE stamp.

The basic texts are the same as the notification referring to rock wool products sent on this same date.
