- Firstly, in order to improve the understanding of some of its provisions, as is the case, for example, of all the provisions to establish a uniform system of measures throughout the text, or those aimed at clarifying difficult areas for interpretation.
- Secondly, to introduce elements that, despite the brief period for which the Order has been in force, constitute technical advances in comparison to those already introduced, or because they provide greater precision in the definition of the basic conditions of accessibility.
- Thirdly, to attempt to harmonise Order VIV/561/2010 with the Technical Code of Construction, in the section on Safety and Accessibility (DB-SUA), in those aspects in which such harmonisation is possible and recommended.
