The draft Safety Code provides for certain regulations in the Fishing Vessels (Safety Provisions) Rules 1975 to cease to apply to vessels less than 12 metres registered length and for these smaller vessels to comply instead with the Safety Code. It stipulates that a vessel shall not proceed to sea unless it has been inspected and received a safety certificate. It further provides for penalties and for vessels to be liable to be detained where the vessel is in contravention of or does not comply with the Regulation. Reference is made at 1.8 of the draft Code and in 7(1) and (2) of the draft Regulation to equivalent standards and testing.

Reference will also be made to Directive 83/189 in the document when it is published
