5. Title

Draft Royal Decree adopting the Technical Regulation on the control and certification of propagation material for cultivated fungi

6. Products Concerned

Cultivated fungi Mushroom, oyster mushroom, blewitt mushroom, shiitake mushroom, king oyster mushroom and black poplar mushroom

7. Notification Under Another Act

8. Main Content

The Royal Decree lays down:

- the quality control systems in fungi cultivation, laying down the definitions, categories and quality requirements of propagation material, as well as the checks to be performed by producers, the official checking of both producers and processes, and official inspections;
- producers' authorisation and registration requirements and the relationship with laboratories authorised to perform analyses with the aim of checking legislative compliance; and
- the labelling and marketing standards for propagation material.

9. Brief Statement of Grounds

Fungi cultivation is a production sector with a long and well-established tradition in Spain, in which new technologies are increasingly being used with success, both in cultivation itself and in the production of the necessary propagation material.

Propagation material is produced by specialised companies capable of implementing quality control systems. The production sector has shown its interest in laying down coordinated quality and certification standards whereby current production places material with a quality reference and harmonised identification, on the market.
